Arlington High Hockey Sextet Drops Tilt, 3-0

Red and Gray Team Goes Into Fourth Place As Result of Loss To Cambridge Latin — Jobie
Lax Outstanding For Locals

By BOB FOREST

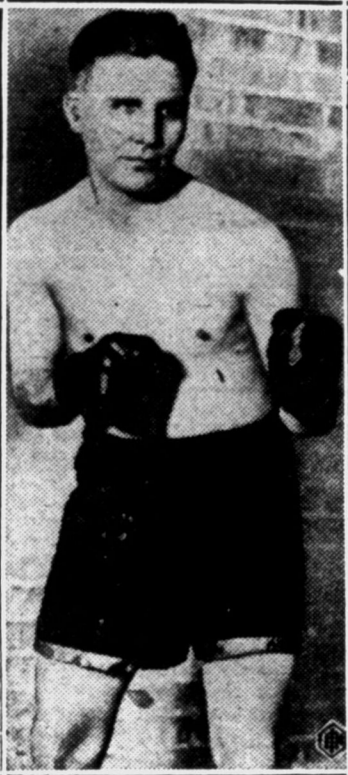

Although gallantly attempting to stem the tide the Arlington High hockey team was hopelessly outclassed by Cambridge Latin 3 to 0 in an Interscholastic League Hockey game at the Boston Garden last Saturday afternoon.

Arlington managed to hold the strong Cantab team scoreless in the first period but the next two periods proved fatal. Heavy body checking on the part of the Arlington defense was one of the big features of the game although it proved to be the undoing of the Arlington team when clever Cantab skaters whirled around the defense and came in on Sakoian, local goalie.

Jobie Lax diminutive Arlington center ice man, was the class for the Red and Gray. He was plugging every minute and was unlucky enough not to score. He deserved at least two goals by his remarkable stick handling. Sakoian in the net looked very good when he made stop after stop due to the Arlington team allowing players to slip in on him. Norberg, Lax and Mee were the starting men in the line for Arlington with Lane, Collins on the defense and Sakoian in the goal. Mee was put out of the game for two minutes for an illegal body check at the five

Out to Kayo Sin

You'll have to hand it to Al Martin for being versatile. From a Baltimore, Md., church choir he transferred his activities to the prize ring with fair success. But he thinks sin is easier to kayo than ring opponents, so he's studying for the ministry at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va.

THUGS CLUB MALDEN MAN
(Malden—Two thugs, armed with a heavy wrench, battered Harry Obelesky, 52, of 159 Essex st., over the head shortly before 2 this morning, in an attempted robbery. They found nothing but some old receipts, since his son, David, 18, who accompanied him, was carrying the night's receipts of their fish market, more than $100. The men fled in a dark sedan, in which a third man was waiting.

USE FOR SHUT BANKS

Washington—A plan to turn thousands of closed banks into postoffices and speed liquidation of frozen deposits is being put before treasury, postoffice and public works officials by Rep. Hancock, Dem. (N. C.). The benefits, Hancock said, would be three-fold:

The money paid to liquidating committees would speed the work of unfreezing deposits; the transactions would help stabilize real estate values throughout the country; hundreds of smaller towns and cities would have presentable federal buildings.

Snow And Ice Cripple All Traffic

Following a comparatively mild day during which weather prophets were apt to announce that "spring's just around the corner," Arlington was gripped in real winter weather again last night.

An inch-snow fall late yesterday afternoon melted just enough to leave streets and highways covered with a glaring sheet of ice when the mercury took a nose dive last night. Autoists who were out in large numbers because of the pleasant weather during the day were caught without chains as they returned home last night. Heavy automobile traffic was forced to creep along as the going was most dangerous and Elevated busses were in most cases behind regular schedules. In many instances, busses between Arlington and Lechmere station were crowded to the doors.

Slippery sidewalks likewise made pedestrian traffic dangerous and police headquarters was swamped with telephone calls complaining of conditions. Employees of the public works department were kept busy throughout the night sanding the most dangerous spots so that streets were a bit clear after this morning.

Arlington Symphony Or- chestra Presents Most Enjoyable Concert — Aims of New Group Stressed At Premiere

The newly organized Community Symphony Orchestra of Arlington, under the direction of Leonard Wood, gave its first public presentation yesterday afternoon in the Robbins Memorial Town Hall, and was greatly applauded by an enthusiastic audience.

The way in which this first program was received was remarkable. A great number of the younger children admitted that they thoroughly enjoyed the concert. The orchestra will serve to stimulate interest in music throughout the town.

John Gruber, a well-known concert pianist, played MacDowell's Concerto in D Minor. Mr. Gruber is a graduate of Arlington High School, and recently won the Schubert Memorial Prize competition which was open to all pianists in the United States. He will make his New York debut on February 18.

The Program

The program consisted of Meyerbeer's "Kronungsmarch," Vorspiel zu "Lohengrin" by Wagner, Concerto No. 2 in D Minor by MacDowell and Beethoven's "Symphony No. 1 in C Major."

The orchestra has proved to be one of the biggest and most successful works which the Arlington Women's Club has yet sponsored. Miss Grace Pierce, supervisor of music in Arlington schools, is

Arlington Audience Hears Inspiring Talk By Dr. Teyhi Hsieh — Gives Picture of Conditions In China

By RUTH DOLLOFF

Dr. Teyhi Hsieh, called the Roosevelt of China, was presented by Raymond Stearns for the Universalist Society at the Robbins Memorial Town Hall last Friday evening. Dr. Hsieh has done more than any other Chinese in the United States to promote a better understanding between the east and west.

His speech entitled "Give Tomorrow's Thought Today" was quite unexpected in text, and the audience thoroughly enjoyed every word.

"God be praised for this wonderful leader of the world today. President Roosevelt has checked a world war," said Dr. Hsieh during the course of his speech. He believes that Japan has ceased for a time at least in uprising again.

Dr. Hsieh divided his speech into the three topics of hope, fear and aspiration. He said that the greatest hope of China is spiritual.

Daddy Sunshine Club Rules

1. Be kind and helpful to others.
2. Look both ways when crossing streets.
3. Always be kind to dumb animals.
4. Write a letter to Daddy Sunshine, or have Mother or Dad write it for you, every now and then.
5. Try to bring a "Ray of Sunshine" into the lives of your parents and others every day of the week and every week of the year.

These rules are not very difficult for good girls and boys to keep. Most of them are kept by them anyway.

Mail your letters and stories to Daddy Sunshine, in care of this paper. He will answer them in the Daddy Sunshine column.

Write on but one side of the paper, and place your age and address on the letter after your name. Give the day, month and year of your birth.

To join the club all you have to do is promise to keep the rules—and keep them.

WHAT IS WORTHWHILE?

Dear Daddy Sunshine:

This is my idea of the meaning of Rule 5.

Try and bring a "Ray of Sunshine" into the life of your parents and others every day of the week, and every week of the year.

There are many ways children may do this. They can help mother in the home; they can respect and help older people; they can be honest and not try to make mother or dad unhappy.

Here is a story that will illustrate the meaning:

Little Claire was an ambitious and good little girl. She was always trying to help someone. After school one day a friend said crossly, "Why don't you ever play with us after school? You are so foolish, going to the corner every night to help some lazy person, whom you think can't walk across the street."

"You the very much wrong," said Claire, "I don't think you realize, that, someday you will be old, you will want someone to help you."

Claire hurried off to the usual busy corner. That friend that she had been talking to, laughed.

Another girl came along. She watched Claire help an old lady across the street. She watched Claire help a cripple boy into the store. She watched her sell pencils for a legless man. But as she watched her heart lightened. She knew Claire was happy when the passers by smiled. She thought perhaps smiles and kind words did mean more than money.

Frances Harmon

Right you are Frances—helpful hands, kind words and a smile, go a long way towards making life worthwhile, not only for the girl or boy who cheerfully serves and helps the old and lame at traffic curves; but to the passerby who sees and witness these kind courtesies. A kindly word, a helping hand, it is not hard to understand, bring Sunshine rays where grief may reign; lightens sorrow, eases pain. So Frances, dear, whatever you do, always be sincere and true in your desire the best to give, in serving others while you live. Daddy Sunshine wants you to know, you have won a ticket for the show. He hopes that all Sunshiners heed, as they, tonight, your letter read, the message you express so well, the story you so nicely tell.

ON RULE NO. 3

Dear Daddy Sunshine:

I wrote about three weeks ago and have been following up the column in the paper. I read the other night that you were giving a ticket if someone wrote about the rules of the club. So here is my story of rule 3. Rule three is: Always be kind to dumb animals.

This rule is one of the best to me because, if one sees a dog with a sore or broken leg, take it in and fix it up as good as you can. Be kind to all animals you see. If a boy or anybody is throwing stones at some animal do not tell them to keep it up but tell them to stop, or take the cat or what ever it may be, and put it somewhere, where it will not be hurt. Always be looking for a chance to help some dumb animal, or never try to pass dumb animals when they can't help themselves. I hope this deserves a ticket.

An old member,
Celia Butter,

Thanks Celia for your letter on rule No. 3. Daddy Sunshine is certain you have a clear understanding of the rule, and appreciates your letter interpreting it. Yes, he promised theatre tickets to members writing their interpretation of any or all of the rules of the club. He has reserved a ticket for you.

More Hope Now In Europe As Result Of Hitler Move

Again, for the second time in a week, there is good news from Europe. A few days ago the cables carried the news of an understanding between Germany and Poland; and now there comes hope of better relations between Germany and France.

Chancellor Hitler has spoken out very frankly, declaring that only the question of the Saar stands between the two neighbor nations; he has denied any desire for the recovery of Alsace-Lorraine; he has pled for a friendly accord between Paris and Berlin.

In general, the reception of this speech in France has been decidedly favorable. Except for the extremely conservative papers, the general tone has been that France cannot refuse to discuss matters with the Reich; that at least an effort should be made to reach an agreement.

A meeting between Hitler and the French premier is not thought to be feasible, but there is much sentiment in favor of an exchange of views through regular diplomatic channels.

This does not mean, of course, that agreement is going to be easy. On the arms question, both sides will have to make concessions. It would not be surprising if the French demanded one simple but acid test of German sincerity, that is, willingness to submit to the international supervision of armaments.

But obviously, there are other matters on which France is willing to make concessions; there have been hints that Austro-German union would not be violently opposed at Paris. The elements of a bargain are at least in the making.

All this is the more hopeful because it indicates that the Hitler government is acquiring a sense of international responsibility. It is too early to jump at conclusions; but it may be that the youthful German dictatorship will become more moderate precisely as Fascism has become more moderate.

At any rate, the latest news relieves what has been a thoroughly gloomy situation.

Michigan Sterilization Furore

Charging that in many cases trickery had been used to obtain parents' consent to operations, Edward H. Williams (left), Wayne County, Mich., auditor, reveals to Ray D. Schneider (center) and John C. DINING

Fruit upon a lettuce leaf—
Tomato juice on ice—
Dainty muffins, if you choose—
And coffee, "very nice."

Dining in the best cafes,
When manicured and groomed,
Is woman's right to luxury
When powdered and perfumed.

Hear the muted orchestra—
And ice, and we shall dance!
Roses . . . mirrors to suggest
A self-admiring glance.

. . . Supper-time — and kitchen chairs
A table set for five—
The baby would be fretful—now!
"Exhausted? Man alive!"

A kitchen apron has to do—
There's never time to change,
What, with gravy to be stirred,
And kraut upon the range.

The squash is burning? Never mind—
I'll have to soak the pan.
I tell you it takes hearty food
To feed a hungry man!

Wonder what it would be like
To enter a cafe
And eat a meal, and never know
How it got that way!

. . . Eight . . . and twelve . . .
and six o'clock—
What contrast each can give;
Some dine to pass the hours away—
And some must eat to live.

45 Stockholders In First National Stores Live Here

Ownership of First National Stores is distributed in 578 cities, towns and villages of New England among 5,320 individuals which is an increase of 16 percent in breadth of distribution during the past two years, according to an analysis made public today. In Massachusetts, 4,183 people in 247 communities own common and preferred stock. Seventy-three communities of the State are represented by ten or more stockholders; 44 communities by between five and ten persons. There are 45 stockholders in Arlington.

Stock-holdings in other New England states show 77 communities in Connecticut with 385 individual owners; 83 in Maine, with 264; 79 in New Hampshire, with 245; 35 in Rhode Island, with 184; 30 in Vermont, with 59.

"First National Stores' ownership, by this analysis," points out A. F. Goodwin, chairman of the board, "is seen not to be concentrated in 'foreign' localities, away from the stores. The distribution of ownership includes every city, town or village where we have stores and many communities where we have none."

BACON TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR IN JUNE

Formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor of the Commonwealth was made today by Lieutenant Governor Gaspar G. Bacon of Jamaica Plain. The lieutenant governor declares that while he will seek the endorsement of the Republican primary convention in June he will make no attempt to pledge any delegate to his candidacy.

Lieutenant Governor Bacon was born in Jamaica Plain March 7, 1886. He was graduated from Harvard College in 1908 and from Harvard Law School in 1912. He is a member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard and is a trustee and secretary of the board of trustees of Boston University. He is also a director of the Massachusetts Society of Mental Hygiene.

Mr. Bacon was a private in the National Guard at the Mexican border in 1916 and enlisted in the United States Army in May, 1917. At the close of the World War he retired as a Major of Field Artillery. He is at present the Assistant Chief of Staff, with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel of the 26th Yankee Division, M. N. G. He was the first commander of the Michael J. O'Connell Post, Jamaica Plain, American Legion, and was the first National Treasurer of the Legion.

Entering public life he served as a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1920 and as a State Senator from 1925 to 1932 inclusive. He was President of the Senate from 1929 to 1932, and in 1932 was elected an alternate-at-large to the Republican National Convention. He was nominated for Lieutenant Governor by the Republican party in 1932, defeating the late Chester I. Campbell by a margin of 66,000 votes. At the election in November, by leading the Republican ticket, he survived the Democratic landslide which gave the State to President Roosevelt by a majority of 63,000, to Governor Ely over William S. Youngman by 121,000 and resulted also in the election of Charles F. Hurley as State Treasurer and Francis X. Hurley as State Auditor.

Mr. Bacon, in defeating John E. Swift for Lieutenant Governor by a margin of about 5,000 votes, polled a total of 745,272 votes, which was 9,000 more than President Hoover and 41,000 more than Mr. Youngman. His recognized vote-getting ability, as shown in the 1932 election, marked him as a Republican of outstanding strength.

He is a profound student of government, having published two books on the subject—"The Constitution of the United States in Some of its Fundamental Aspects," published by the Harvard University Press in 1927, and "Government and the Voter," published in 1931. He is married and has three children.

In his formal announcement, Lieutenant Governor Bacon said: Lieutenant Governor Gaspar G. Bacon issued the following statement to the press today:

"I am a candidate for the office of Governor of the Commonwealth. I shall seek the endorsement of the Republican primary convention next June. I shall, however, make no attempt to pledge any delegate to my candidacy. As far as I am concerned, each one will be free to exercise his own uninfluenced judgement. If I am honored by the endorsement of the Convention, I pledge myself to wage a vigorous campaign for the principles and platform which it adopts. I hope to be the standard bearer of a re-invigorated and liberalized Republican party.

"Throughout the campaign I shall state my views on public questions frankly and without equivocation. This is no time for subterfuge or evasion. The people want the truth. I shall welcome advice and constructive criticism. Destructive criticism leads only to disruption, to loss of confidence and despair. Those who indulge in it are but undermining our institutions of government and retarding the forces of recovery.

"It is my hope that the campaign may be conducted without bitterness. Denunciation and personal abuse offer no help to a distressed people. The times call for helpful cooperation. Neither selfishness nor self-aggrandizement have any place in the battle line against depression. It is only through unity of purpose, willingness to subordinate personal opinions in the interest of the majority, and responsiveness to party leadership that we can hope to carry out any progressive program. Our party is greater than any individual or any group of individuals.

"Representative government is the execution of the will of the people. Due to new conditions, the obligations and functions of government are rapidly changing. For the protection of all the people these obligations and functions must be circumscribed, and exploitation in the interest of the few prevented. Especially in a period of instability, we need experience in public office. More than ever, the public service demands honesty, courage, common sense, knowledge and vision.

"We must adapt our fundamental institutions of government to new needs, to new possibilities of human advancement. The gains and advantages of recent codes of fair competition and the more enlightened attitude incorporated therein of capital towards labor, should be made permanent either by legislation or by interstate agreement. Abuses of the old regime can and will be corrected. The recurring ravages of unemployment can, by proper planning and by the establishment of some system of insurance or reserves, be substantially lessened. The cost of government can be reduced, while its effectiveness for the benefit of all can be measurably increased. Our whole system of taxation needs drastic revision.

"To these ends, if given the Republican nomination for Governor, I shall devote myself without stint. My claim for consideration is based upon ten years of uninterrupted and unremitting service to the Commonwealth."

Who wants to be a MOTHER HUBBARD?

OLD MOTHER HUBBARD found her cupboard bare, but that isn't true of New England women if the experience of one large grocer in Boston is any guide.

This grocer reports that his customers purchased 30,000 more grocery articles last month than during the same month a year ago.

That means more orders for the factories, more wheels turning, more farm products consumed, more jobs. All of which lead to better times.

The perfect-housekeeper has a well-stocked pantry shelf. Canned goods for example. The new packs are in, and many emergency shelf foods—always available in your home.

It's no longer clever to boast of having so little—money or things about the house. There's a surge of pride in the modern woman as she shows her well-stocked pantry—her new breakfast set—her new refrigerator—her newly painted bathroom, etc.

It's all in good taste to boast of helping recovery.

A CHALLENGE TO THE PRESS

When a man has to purchase advertising space to make denials of what he terms "three startling and misleading front page headlines that have appeared recently in a Boston morning newspaper," and gives in that space the denials of the facts contained in the headlines, based upon his own investigations, then it is about time that the newspaper publishers and editors turned the spotlight upon their own profession.

The advertisement is a direct challenge to the press. Either the newspaper or newspapers that printed the headlines were right or they were wrong. If the headlines and the articles were wrong, then those in authority should have the decency and courage to say so in their own space.

Some newspapers and some editors are prone to tell one side of a story, the side that does the damage, without giving the other side a break. We have had examples of it in the dealings of some of our own citizens with out-of-town newspapers.

The repetition of such things in newspapers will lower them in the estimation of the public. Business men are complaining today that newspaper reporters are not as accurate as in the past and that they do not interpret statements, speeches and events in the light of their true importance, but pick out some insignificant fact and play that up.

Some firms have had unpleasant experiences along these lines and two of the largest in this section of the country bar reporters from any and all of their gatherings because they have found their reports to be inaccurate.

In the interest of fairness to the profession, however, it is heartening to know that by far the majority of newspaper publishers, editors and reporters are honest, frank and fair-minded in the handling of the material that goes into the news columns. On all of the better newspapers the goal is accuracy and beginners receive a thorough grounding in the principles and ideals of good newspaper work.

Testified in Air Mail Quiz

That the stock of Transcontinental Air Transport "suddenly went up" after Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had received a gift of 25,000 shares, valued at $250,000, was testimony offered before Senate mail probing committee by Daniel M. Sheaffer (top), director of the company. Another witness, F. G. Coburn, former president of American Airways, is shown, left, as he testified, and Theodore Tawney (right) tells how he was told it was "useless" for him to bid for mail contract.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

by
Edson R. White

Even if the economic condition of the nation could be—over night—restored to a state which we have in the past termed 'normal', there still would not be enough jobs to go around among the 12,000,000 persons now unemployed. Did it ever occur to you that in this process of financial and industrial recovery some provision must be made in the scheme of things to care for that inescapable excess of labor over employment, if general prosperity is to be restored?

We are told by the sages that there is too much land in cultivation, that crops must be plowed under to avoid surpluses in agricultural products. Did you ever stop to think that even while we are destroying such commodities there are hundreds of thousands of people in the United States going hungry for want of those very foodstuffs? Then there is not too much land in cultivation. The evil lies elsewhere.

The trend to the cities during past industrial prosperity has upset the balance. People must turn back to the elemental source of livelihood—the soil, which is capable of producing those things which are necessary to life. In the urban centers of the nation are countless staunch, dependable and reliable citizens, suffering now for lack of incomes, who would jump at an opportunity to emigrate to the land—IF they could buy that land. IF they could equip it and finance a crop, and IF they knew how to take their living from the soil after they possess it.

The American government itself is the largest American landed proprietor. It could provide land for homes; it could even afford to buy land for homes, sell it with no down payments, equip it with the necessary livestock and machinery, finance the first and the second years' crop, and teach the homesteader how to grow his living—rather than to mete out a dole, which, at best, is only a temporary, stop-gap measure to combat the hunger menace. Compact farm communities, of 20 to 40 acre tracts—made available by the government and strictly government supervised under the guidance of competent agricultural agents—might provide a surprisingly rapid remedy for industrial depression and open a reasonably certain route to national recovery.

Did You Ever Stop To Think That When You Set Out To Cure An Economic Ill, As Well As A Physical Ill, You Should Begin At The Beginning?

Old Car Tickets Turn Up At Lynn

LYNN—Out of the dim, almost forgotten past, aged reminders of cheaper fares on the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway are cropping out these days, much to the astonishment of the employees who had all but forgotten Strip tickets from as far back as the World War era are appearing on the street cars in payment for fares—and being accepted.

Some of the withered, creased tickets date back to 1917-18, when the stripes sold at the rate of 20 for $1, but most of them come from the 1920 period, when 19 for $1 was the rate. Today the rate is 16 rides for $1.

The railway officials believe that their riders, scouring through their closets and trunks for gold in response to President Roosevelt's edict about hoarding, came across the old tickets and resolved to put them to use.

"Ann Vickers" First Anniversary Film At Regent Theatre

The Regent theatre opens its anniversary week celebration with the showing of "Ann Vickers" today and tomorrow. In addition to this box-office success another picture is included on the double-feature bill.

Sinclair Lewis tossed "Ann Vickers" as a literary bombshell into the trenches of tradition, and now RKO-Radio Pictures, which was high bidder for the screen rights, has picked it up and hurled it further at the old fortresses which have held back the march of womanhood.

Irene Dunne and Walter Huston are co-starred, and other luminaries of the screen have done their share, but credit must be given to the Lewis theme for considerable of the popularity of the current hit which is keeping the motion picture theatre turnstiles clicking.

Ann Vickers is a girl who has very modern ideas about love and the courage to do something with them. Things are quiet enough with her back in a mid-Western small town until she is caught in the war hysteria, and suddenly falls in love with a handsome army captain, who betrays her and destroys her illusion of love.

Another setback in love, and Ann grows bitter. She strives to drive all thoughts of romance from her and seek comfort in a career, hoping to gain the plaudits of the public while she improves civilization. Ann finds fame, but it is the fame that leaves a void in her heart. Next, a brilliant jurist crosses her path, and another affair seems to bring her happiness.

But the man with whom she falls in love is sentenced to prison. Forced at last to choose between the love of a man behind the bars and her own brilliant career, she makes a dramatic decision.

Youth Will Be Served? Ha-Ha!

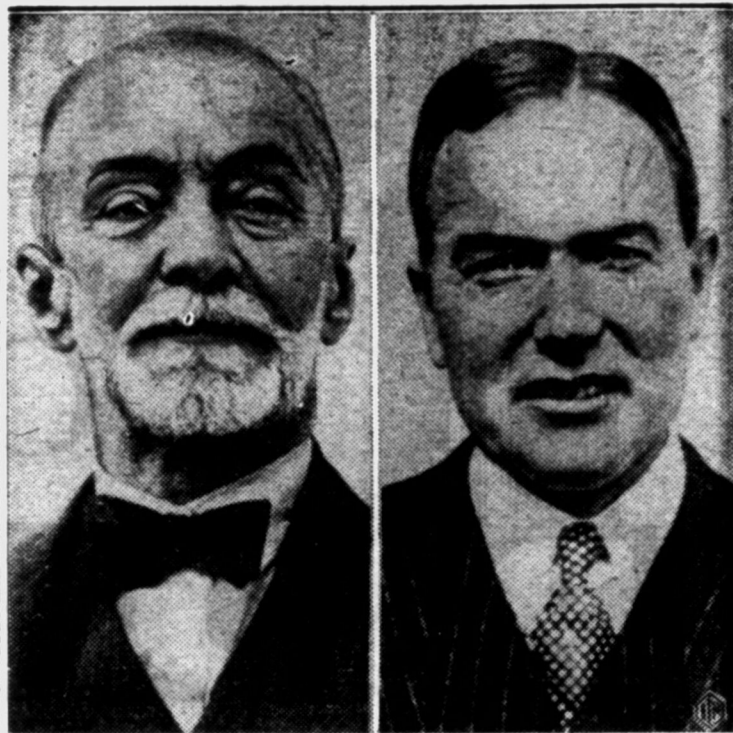

Looking as if he could go another three sets without tiring, William "Big Bill" Tilden is congratulated by Ellsworth Vines (right) after he had defeated the latter in their match at Madison Square Garden, New York. The largest gallery in American tennis history saw the Old Master trounce the youthful Vines 8-6, 6-3, 6-2 in Vines' professional debut.

In Federal Toils

Arrested in Easton, Pa., by Federal agents who charged her with broadcasting counterfeit bills, Jessie Hanley, eighteen and pretty, tearfully told of finding the bills at the Easton railway station and spending them, unaware they were phony. She identified herself as the daughter of a socially prominent New York family.

In Ten-Million-Dollar Suit

A battle of financial giants is indicated by filing of suit in New York by August Heckscher (left), millionaire philanthropist, who seeks $10,000,000 damages from John D. Rockefeller, Jr. (right), and others in control of Rockefeller Center. Heckscher charges "unfair and unlawful" practices in renting of Rockefeller buildings.

There Spake True Friendship

By IRVIN S. COBB

TO A prosperous cloak and suit merchant on the lower East Side came an acquaintance of many years' standing. The newcomer had made a failure of it as a pushcart huckster, and then as a dealer in castoff garments. But he was undismayed and his ambition still soared. It seemed that now he aspired to open a regular store—on borrowed capital.

"But I don't want I should ask my friends for the money," he explained. "Never would I do that. So this morning I go by that bank over yonder on the other side of the street and I talk with the bank president, a feller named Howard, about it. He says to me I should make him a note with indorsements and then he slips me the mazuma. I asks him what is a note, and what is this here indorsement? So he asks me who do I know in the neighborhood what has plenty money, and I says to him that I know you. And then he fixes up this here piece of paper, and he says to me I should bring it over here and get you to sign your name on the back of it, and then he would right away give me the two thousand dollars. So, here I am Goldberg."

Mr. Goldberg's voice was husky with emotion as he answered: "Moe," he said, "honestly for you I am positively ashamed that you should do this thing. Ain't always we been friends both in the old country and over here? And now when you need money do you come to me and ask me for it, man to man? No, you go to a boy like that Howard. Oy! Oy! Listen, I am the one which is going to help you and not some feller in a bank. You get Howard to sign his name on the back of this paper and then I give you the money!"

Where Japanese Ambitions Lie in Pacific

MANDATED ISLANDS THAT MAY PRECIPITATE WAR
Dispensing with the customary flowery phraseology of the Orient, Vice-Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, commander-in-chief of the combined Imperial fleets of Japan, recently declared that Japan already is preparing for war with the United States, implying that there is not room for two big fleets in the Pacific and apparently believing that the distance separating the American mainland from her Hawaiian and Philippine possessions is an insurmountable handicap to the U. S. The flight of U. S. Navy seaplanes from San Francisco to Hawaii in 24 hours under the leadership of Lt. Com. Kneffer McGinnis may have changed the admiral's outlook. Backed by Minister of War Sadao Araki, Admiral Suetsugu further asserts that in 1935, when she is due to return mandated Pacific islands to the League of Nations, war will result if any attempt is made to oust Japan from these islands.

EVER HEAR OF THE
HORN POND HOTEL?

Here is an "ad" printed at least 107 years ago and reproduced this week in the Winchester Star:

HORN POND HOTEL

This ad was in a Boston newspaper July 16, 1827.

The subscribed respectfully informs his former customers and the Public generally, that he continues to keep the Hotel at the Horn Pond Locks, near the Lake of the woods, so called, in Woburn. The house has lately been enlarged and fitted up for further accommodation of parties, boarders and others who may wish to visit one of the most beautiful places of resorts in New England.

The lake is well stored with fine fish and gentlemen who are fond of fine fishing can be accommodated with boats and fishing apparatus at all times.

There are many cool, delightful and romantic walks on the banks of the Middlesex Canal and around the lake. A convenient bathing house belongs to the establishment and two bowling alleys, very pleasantly situated in a grove near the lake and out of the way of the Locks.

His bar will constantly be supplied with the best of liquor; his cellar with the best of wines, etc. and his larder with the best of the season affords; and he is fully confident if ladies and gentlemen will visit his place they will not be disappointed.

4th Division Vets Meet Jan. 20th At The Kenmore, Boston

The fifth annual Reunion Dinner of the 4th Division Association of New England will be held on Saturday afternoon and evening, January 20 at the Hotel Kenmore, Kenmore sq, Boston.

New England men served in many army divisions during the World War, but outside of the 26th probably more New England men served in the 4th than in any other combat division. Like every regular army division, the 4th was made up of men from every part of the country, but its greatest reunions are in Boston annually, and in the New England Association, it musters more men than any other place.

A feature of the reunion will be the motion picture "Yanks in Action," a composite of Official Signal Corps motion pictures arranged and shown by famous War Photographer, Major Edwin H. Cooper, a past commander of the Legion of Valor.

Veterans who were elected at the annual business meeting held in December who will take office at the reunion meeting are: Major Charles W. Gallagher, U. S. A. of Belmont, President; Carl J. Kessler of Boston, Treasurer.

2730 JOBS FOR WOMEN UNDER CWA

Jobs for 2730 women on a state census of the unemployed will be given out in a few days, it was announced late last night as authorization from CWA officials at Washington eliminated all legal difficulties. Shortly before the announcement came word that 610 men were at work on Boston school buildings in excess of civil works project requirements. Unless the men can be retained legally, the census enumerators will record them among the idle of the state.

Mrs. Anna Page, director of the state unemployed census, had been unable to begin hiring women as enumerators because of two legal tangles: She had ordered census blanks from a local concern when CWA regulations make it mandatory to have such printing done by the government printing office at Washington; she wanted census matter franked through the mails.

Oldest Male Resident To Receive Cane

Unless some older male resident is found, Isaac Sexton, ninety-two years old, of 59 Bartlett ave., will be presented the Boston Post cane by the board of selectmen shortly. The last holder of the cane was Roderic McNeill who died a few months ago. Since then Town Clerk E. Caroline Pierce has been checking the list of residents of the Town along with their ages and Mr. Sexton appears to be the oldest male resident of Arlington. He was 92 last August 4.

The Post cane has been held by six local residents thus far. General Nelson Munroe was the first to hold the gold-top cane which he had in his possession several years until his death in 1924. Then came Charles D. Warner and later Albert M. Murch who died at the age of ninety-six. Arthur Coughlin, late of 54 Norfolk st., was the next in line. Then came Comrade Lathrop, last G. A. R. veteran to precede Commander Alfred H. Knowles to the grave. Roderic McNeill was the last to hold the cane which was turned over to the Town Clerk for the next holder who in all likelihood will be Mr. Sexton.

MALDEN SAVINGS NOT TO JOIN HOME LOAN SYSTEM NOW

Following announcement that the Provident Institution for Savings of Boston, second largest savings bank in the state, had joined the Home Loan Bank, Pres. A. G. Gilman of the Malden Savings Bank said yesterday that for the present at least the Malden Savings Bank will not join because it has nothing to gain thereby.

If the movement among Massachusetts savings banks towards joining becomes general, the Malden Savings may consider similar action.

The Home Loan Bank occupies a similar position among the savings banks that the Federal Reserve occupies among commercial banks.

At the last meeting of the Massachusetts Savings Banks' association, of which Mr. Gilman is president, the head of the Massachusetts Home Loan Bank was a guest and speaker.

High School Education To Be Compulsory???

The prediction that, because of technological unemployment attendant on changing economic conditions, high school education will ultimately be made compulsory and the plea that it be revised to serve the highest purposes of democracy were voiced last night by Prof. Isaac Leon Kandel of Columbia University, who delivered the annual Inglis lecture at Harvard School of Education.

president of the orchestra. Mrs. Herbert W. Reed is vice-president. Mrs. Horace Lester, secretary, and John Bishop, treasurer.

Aims of Orchestra

There are more than thirty Arlington residents in the orchestra composed of sixty persons. Some of the aims of the orchestra are to give symphony concerts at popular prices, to present the best of musical literature, to give musicians a chance to continue music after leaving high school or college, to help buy instruments for talented students who can not afford them, to inspire composers of Arlington to write and to assure them of having their works played, and to furnish a medium of entertainment at which to spend some of the increased leisure time.

Any contributions to the help of the orchestra will be greatly appreciated. The great need is for the public financial and moral support.

The Community Symphony Orchestra will give its second concert about March 1 at the Robbins Memorial Town Hall. Allen Havoness will be guest artist.

Twenty seconds later, Norberg, Lax and Mee were the forward line. The Cambridge penalty came on again at eight minutes. Sullivan, Gardella and Byrne relieved at eleven minutes.

Cambridge scored early in the second period. Sullivan, Gardella and Byrne were the line at the time. The second line replaced them at the goal. Gardella was temporarily out as his hockey had hit a girl on the sidelines and he stopped to see what the damage was. The Cantab man was able to skate right in on Sakoian and shoot over him as he dove to save. Lane took a shot at the six minute bell at a man coming down the left wing. He missed the man and he skated in on Sakoian to shoot over his prostrate body for another tally.

Al Lane and a Cambridge player were ejected at the eleven minute bell and they were still in the box as the period ended with Latin leading 2 to 0.

Third Period

Norberg took over the defense job while Lane was in the box at the opening of the third stanza. Arlington was left with only three skaters when Collins was put in the box with a leg check. Lane came on and a Cambridge man joined Collins in the box with a slashing penalty. Neither team cared to take advantage of the chances to score. A Cambridge man again slipped inside the Arlington defense from a wing but Sakoian made a beautiful save. Desrosier for Cambridge put the game on solid ice at 8:37 by again evading the Arlington defense and skating in on Sakoian to shoot over him for the third and final tally of the game. A four man offense by Arlington late in the game was met by a stonewall defense on the part of Latin and failed to net a score as Arlington went down to its first hockey defeat and fourth place tie with Newton in the League.

operation of the American people, and thought it unusual that a nation as large as America and with so many international affairs could cooperate in their immediate communities in the way that is being done in this country.

"China," he explained when telling that his country had no unfriendly feelings toward another nation, "has not yet begun to write in her schools the songs of hate."

"America has the greater hope of the universe than any other part of the world," he stated, and in another part of his address said that radicals were the great fear in the want of real Americanism.

Needs More Teachers

In telling of the present educational situation of China he stated that there is now one teacher to every one hundred and six thousand people. He said that what China needs greatly are more teachers, more leaders, and more missionaries.

He seemed delighted with American improvements, and commented, "The only thing America has not perfected is the non-skid paper napkin." He interested the audience with many amusing stories to illustrate his points.

Interesting Personality

Dr. Hsieh is a slight man in stature, but is great in the power of speech. He has thoroughly mastered the English language and talks rapidly at times. Due to the fact that his first English teacher was Scotch he has acquired a Scotch accent. His motto is: "I am not no more than you think me to be; but I am all that you believe I can be."

Before Dr. Hsieh, spoke Madame Rose Zulalian, popular radio and concert singer who sang at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last year, offered "Caravans From China Come" and "Ring Out Wild Bells" both composed by her pianist, Warren Storey Smith, professor of music at the New England Conservatory, and music critic for the Boston Post. Madame Zulalian sang in French an encore "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from the opera Samson and Delilah by Saint-Saens. A basket of flowers was presented as a token of gratitude.

The Arlington High School orchestra opened the program with a group of selections among which were "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "Colonel Fitch March" by Hall.

Tapestries on the drop curtain were loaned for the occasion by the Chinese Nationalist Government. The girls who were ushers were dressed in Oriental costumes owned by Dr. Hsieh. They were worn more than a hundred years ago. The bright colors of the costumes and the tapestries gave an Oriental effect.

Madame Zulalian sang the national anthem which closed the program.

Hip Fractured As Result Of Auto Accident

Although there was an alarming increase in auto deaths in this State during the past week, there were comparatively few automobile accidents in Arlington. The most serious local mishap occurred last Saturday when Mrs. Nancy Scales, of 144 Lowell st., was struck by an automobile operated by Paul E. Dalton, of Bow st., according to the police. Mrs. Scales suffered a fractured hip and internal injuries.

She was taken to the Symmes hospital where X-ray pictures are to be taken to determine the extent of her injuries. The accident happened on Massachusetts ave., between Newman Way and Bartlett ave.

According to Morgan T. Ryan, registrar of motor vehicles in his weekly report made public yesterday, there were 26 fatalities in Massachusetts during the past week.

Twelve pedestrians and an equal number of occupants of autos died. One bicycle rider succumbed after a collision and a coaster was killed. The total deaths for the week ending Jan. 12 show six fewer killed for the fiscal year than in the corresponding time in 1933.

Convictions of motorists driving under the influence of liquor totaled 135 during last year, the report shows. Of these, 19 were committed to jail. Licenses and registrations suspended or revoked numbered 453, which were 30 fewer than the week before, and 33 fewer than in the corresponding period of last year.

AT TWIN HOUSES

First National's latest comedy production, "Convention City", with a ten-star cast including Joan Blondell, Adolph Menjou, Dick Powell, Mary Astor, Hugh Herbert, Frank McHugh, Patricia Ellis and Guy Kibbee will have its New England premiere at the Paramount and Fenway theatres on Thursday January 18th.

"Convention City" is the Peter Milne story about the goofy goings-on in Atlantic City during one week of a sales convention. Many of the scenes in the picture were taken in the resort city, and it is said the movie has successfully captured all the glamour and glory that rightfully belongs to Atlantic City.

The companion feature at both theatres will be "His Double Life," a Paramount release produced by Eddie Dowling in association with Arthur Hopkins.

Industrialist Head

Clinton L. Bardo, of Camden, N. J., who succeeds Robert L. Lund, of St. Louis, Mo., as president of the National Association of Manufacturers. Bardo is head of the New York Shipbuilding Company. He pledged co-operation with Federal Administration in working out industrial self-government.
